

NAVAL RESERVE READINESS COMMAND SOUTHWEST PERSONAL VISION STATEMENT

I help individual Reservists and Active Duty gaining commands.

Working at Readiness Command Southwest provides me the opportunity to assist individual reservists meet their respective training and administration requirements which, in turn, enhances their ability to support their active duty gaining commands.

I help my shipmates at Readiness Command Southwest.

Although I help individual reservists or help those helping them, I cannot do these things by myself. I work with shipmates at my own command and throughout the Navy chain of command including reserve units, reserve centers, Naval Reserve Forces Command and active duty gaining commands. No matter what my specific function at Readiness Command Southwest, I am a team player and I know I contribute to the overall success of the organization.

I help me.

I make myself valuable. I learn and grow. I acquire new skills and knowledge. I learn and practice the principles of responsibility and leadership. I do the job I have today to the best of my ability so as to achieve personal and professional growth and development including promotions and advancements. And, most of all, I have fun!